

The Aliens Have Landed!

by Kenn Nesbitt
Parts (6): Narrators 1-6

NARRATOR 1: The aliens have landed!

NARRATOR 2: It's distressing, but they're here.

NARRATOR 3: They piloted their flying saucer

NARRATOR 4: through our atmosphere.

NARRATOR 5: They landed like a meteor

NARRATOR 6: engulfed in smoke and flame.

NARRATOR 1: Then out they climbed immersed in slime

NARRATOR 2: and burbled as they came.

NARRATOR 3: Their hands are greasy tentacles.

NARRATOR 4: Their heads are weird machines.

NARRATOR 5: Their bodies look like cauliflower

NARRATOR 6: and smell like dead sardines.

NARRATOR 1: Their blood is liquid helium.

NARRATOR 2: Their eyes are made of granite.

NARRATOR 3: Their breath exudes the stench of foods
from some unearthly planet.

NARRATOR 4: And if you want to see these sickly, unattractive creatures,

NARRATOR 5: you'll find them working in your school;

NARRATOR 6: they all got jobs as teachers.
